A NEW RELATIONSHIP

Making a success of the EU-UK relationship is critical to both sides. Although the 'transition period' following the UK's departure from the EU ended in December 2020, the last eighteen months have shown there is still a great deal of work to be done. Much 'unfinished business' in the Trade and Cooperation Agreement has still to be dealt with satisfactorily and the debate is now only starting on the nature of future EU-UK relations.

The EU-UK Forum's 2022 annual conference will build on the work of last year's inaugural event and explore the potential opportunities and pitfalls in pursuing constructive engagement and cooperation.

The EU|UK FORUM Annual Conference 2021

Annual Conference 2021 overview

While the United Kingdom faces a unique opportunity afforded to very few advanced economies - to review its laws from first principles - it remains unlikely that it will radically diverge from the EU in most areas, not least because UK helped to shape EU law.

The TCA also limits the possibilities for divergence, while the so-called “Brussels effect” will remain in areas such as data and emissions for the foreseeable future, demanding close EU-UK alignment.

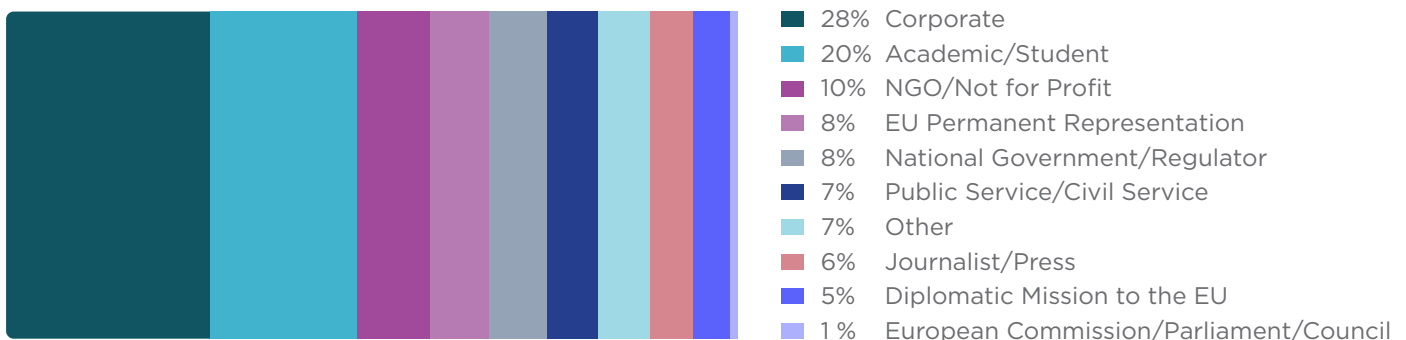

The inaugural EU-UK Forum annual conference assessed, amongst other things, perhaps the biggest challenge of all: re-building trust and realigning the relationship. It convened political commentators and experts, policymakers, businesses, and civil society to discuss the nature of the relationship as it stood at the time of the conference, and the key areas for continued and future co-operation.
